About us

Hello there.

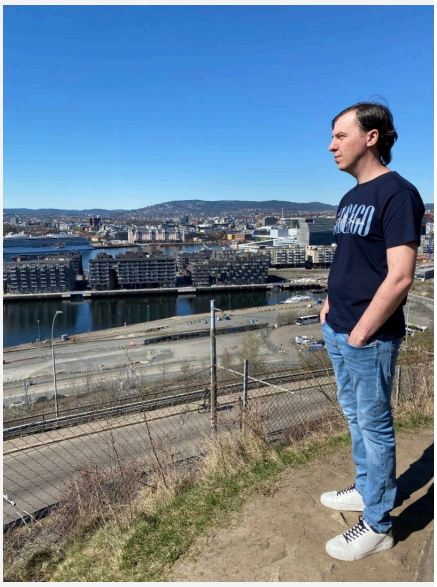
My name is Viktor Dudkevych and I am the creator of the “World Typology” website (formerly Typology.one). After graduating the Philological Faculty, I was deeply interested in people, their culture, languages and behavior. My study gave me the opportunity to visit the United States and several countries of Europe later.

During that time, the Soviet personality typology called “socionics” was one of my interests too. This was preceded by the realization that all the people I know in reality are different and many of them do not have stable common interests. This has always been expressed in their repeated behavior, misunderstanding and different tastes.



In 2013, together with engineer Olha Kovalchuk, we investigated that socionics is not psychology or part of any other science that currently exists.

This is due to the fact that the behavior of people and their sense of self does not change with time as a whole, therefore it is psychologically impossible to influence people and change them completely.

In the process of research, we also found out that socionics itself as a concept had many logical errors, which also served as a start and impetus for us to create our first critical work called “Compact socionics”

(“Практичная соционика”, 2013). The purpose of such work was to bring this knowledge out of the logical impasse and give rise to a new emerging field. Starting from 2015, it was decided to create a website (“Практичная соционика”), where all theoretical information was placed in the public domain.

In 2018, the second author’s website was published with a logical typology and author’s developments based on part of our theory “Compact socionics”, as well as on new facts from the environment that we saw and recorded.

Now, this public information website “World Typology” has been created for you, in the form of an encyclopedia.

Its goal is to share with you all that we know about people and nature, to logically explain regularities and why people and nature are different, and to prepare new facts and information for you.

Our next big dream is to open the first real laboratory and its subsequent branches in different places and countries. Only this will help to develop and use more modern practical methods in typology. This will only be possible with your help and support.

So, once again, welcome to the typology and thank you for staying with us!
